LISHON, Ame 22 A coal shortge is being keenly feld in Portugal twing to the prohibition of coal esportation from England and the all ence of any good coal producing intriess in this country

All coal for industries was in ported chiefly from Cardiff and New until and since that has reuse and orders placed in the Univer-States have been canceled, the sitnation threatens to become serious and people are looking forward with alarm to the coming winter Abcormal conditions exist as a result. all restaurants, cafes and places of impsement must close promptly at sidnight and external illuminations re prohibited

There is but little cont produce 12 in Portugal which has been entire ly dependent on imported coal. For tomestic purposes charcoat is chiefly used all over the country in small earthenware stoves especially made for its ase. Now, however, even that has disappeared, as the price of fuel rose to such an extent that the government was obliged to enforce fixed prices. In consequence, at market, hoping to obtain ever increasing prices for wood
